With its wide color gamut, enormous 1800:1 contrast ratio, state-of-the-art USB-C connectivity and pre-installed HDR presets, the CG2400S is the ideal tool for professional creatives. The CG2400S with Wide Gamut IPS panel, 10-bit color depth and 16-bit 3D Look-Up-Table (LUT) offers perfect precision, smooth color transitions and nuances. The Adobe RGB color space is covered by 99% and the DCI-P3 color space by 98%. Thanks to the presets for HLG and the PQ gamma curves, even the smallest model in the ColorEdge CG series can be ideally integrated into HDR production workflows. The integrated calibration sensor enables effortless, automatic calibration. Thanks to the universal connectivity via USB-C, a single cable is used to transmit the image signal and power the monitor’s

USB hub. It can also be used to supply a mobile device with up to 70 watts of charging current. In combination with the integrated USB hub, the CG2400S becomes the central dock for creative workflows in a single operation. Of course, an HDMI and DisplayPort connection are also on board. The supplied light protection screen rounds off the CG2400S’s extensive features.
