GENESIS Palladium 200 is a lightweight and compact backpack that combines the convenience of everyday use with functionality for any occasion and a stylish design. With roomy compartments, a dedicated compartment for a laptop or console and practical pockets, it allows you to stay organized and have everything at hand. Its thoughtful design makes the Palladium 200 a versatile choice for school, work, travel and short outings.

Small size, big possibilities

The GENESIS Palladium 200 is a backpack that is both compact and yet can fit everything you need on a daily basis. Its small size makes it ideal for school, college or short trips. You can also easily use it as carry-on luggage - without worrying that it won't fit in your compartment or glove box.

Convenient organization

Two separate compartments give you complete packing freedom. You can keep books or electronic equipment like a laptop in one, and clothes or workout shoes in the other. This way, the backpack will perform in all conditions, and you're always sure it's ready for your next outing or trip!

Universal partition

When designing the Palladium 200 backpack, we wanted to make sure that the special internal pocket would accommodate all devices up to 14.1 inches, but that's not all! It will also successfully fit a handheld console, or other necessary accessories you want to always have at hand. It's a convenient and secure solution that makes everyday life easier.

Thoughtful design

Inside, you'll find additional compartments and pockets to help you stay organized and quickly access the items that are most important to you. Two side pockets are great for a water bottle or umbrella. The backpack is also equipped with reflectors, making you more visible after dark - a practical detail that significantly increases your safety.
