The MikroTik GPERx6 is designed as an outdoor network extender, providing robust and reliable connectivity for a variety of environments. With a wide operating temperature range from -40°C to 70°C, it ensures operation in extreme conditions while delivering consistent performance. The GPERx6 supports multiple data link protocols, including Gigabit Ethernet and 10 Gigabit Ethernet, allowing for versatile networking options suited for demanding applications.

Equipped with six ports, this device uses wired connectivity technology to offer reliable data transmission. The RJ-45 and SFP+ connectors provide flexibility in interface choices, ensuring compatibility with various network setups. Additionally, the GPERx6 complies with multiple standards, including RoHS and IP66, making it suitable for outdoor installations where resistance to dust and water is essential.
