Optimized for IT—and business

Designed with IT and end-users in mind, the highly-responsive Lenovo V Series AIOs are easy to set up, deploy, use, and manage. Engineered for energy efficiency, they undergo stringent testing to ensure that they can perform in the most challenging environments. As well as helping you maximize productivity, they have robust security features to safeguard your critical data and built-in reliability that your business can count on.

The power to empower your business

When it comes to performance and responsiveness, the Lenovo V530 AIO punches way above its starting weight of 5.6 kg. With up to 8th Gen Intel® Core™ i7 processing power and 32 GB of high-speed memory, plus a choice of storage options, your productivity and efficiency levels are set to soar.

What are you waiting for?

For an even faster, smoother, and more responsive PC experience, opt for a hard drive with Intel® Optane™ memory. By recognizing the way you work, this smart next-gen technology accelerates everything—from booting up and opening large apps, to finding files fast and multitasking seamlessly.

Your data is your business

Every V530 AIO is equipped with Smart USB Protection and TPM, or Trusted Platform Module. The first feature enables you to restrict the USB devices that can access your PC, the other provides hardware-based security should the system be tampered with.

You can never be too careful

For extra peace of mind, you can open and close the webcam with the push of a button. So there's no need to spoil the nice, clean look of the 23.8" borderless display with sticky tape or notes to cover

Easy on the eyes, ears, & pocket

With its 'low blue light' certification, the V530 AIO delivers a more comfortable viewing experience than other monitors. And, as the proud recipients of the world's first Ultra Low Noise Certificate issued by TUV Rheinland, the product safety testing and certification experts, we have designed it to be ultra quiet, too. In addition, its superb energy efficiency results in lower utility bills for you.

Great for any business & workspace

At home in almost any environment, V530 AIO's durability and reliability mean good value for any business. It's great for IT managers, too, who can tap into Lenovo Vantage tools to help optimize system performance and protect data. And the rear cable holder is perfect for those who like a neat desk.
