The Cordura Speed XL is 90 cm wide, so it can easily fit your mouse, keyboard, and any other accessories. Some people even use it as a beverage holster - and we're not surprised because it's hydrophobic.

The smooth surface of this mousepad will make your maneuvers movements more precise. You don't have to frantically flick your mouse across the desk anymore – the cursor will always go where you tell it to.

The Cordura Speed XL is also robust and resistant to abrasion – thanks to…, you’ve guessed right, CORDURA®, a fabric that makers of protective military clothing have been using for years. It’s solid and pleasant to the touch – once you lay your hand on it, you’ll no longer want to use other pads.

CORDURA® armor fabric for special tasks

The Cordura Speed XL is a mouse pad that can withstand long hours of mouse work. It is resistant to scuffing, scratching (note, that’s what cat people tell us), and bumping – it still looks as fresh as a model in a shampoo commercial, even after many hours of such extreme clicking testing. Some would probably say it's a coincidence (we don't think so...) – but the truth is, it’s backed up by military technology.

A Speed-type surface

With the Cordura Speed XL, you’ll hit your target with ease. Its smooth surface reduces annoying friction, giving you complete power over your mouse. It's as if it had a mind of its own (just in case, let’s not give it any ideas about taking over the world.

Never leaves its post mousepad

The thing about intense mouse work is that it sometimes makes your mousepad move on the tabletop. At first, you probably won't even notice it – but after a few hours, you may find yourself sitting in a twisted position like a zombie in a horror movie... Not to mention a sore back.

- As durable as a mongepad
- A Speed-type surface
- Always under the mouse
