Upgrade to the future

Minimalism meets power

The most recent generation of mainstream BRIX products adopts an all-new chassis design. Computing performance has increased, but the design does not require an increase in the size of the chassis. Its appearance has curved, soft, and twisted lines with a liveliness that makes it very unobtrusive.

By the way it was assembled and layered, and designing oblique angles around the base, a sense of simplicity is created to achieve a lightweight design. This allows users to enjoy ultimate computing performance while also having a stylish and elegant product.

With the latest 13th Gen Intel® Core™ Mobile Processors, Intel has taken its hybrid design to the next level. The new processors boast more powerful Performance-cores (P-cores), allowing for swift and seamless completion of tasks. The improved Efficient-cores (E-cores) enable even better multi-tasking, making it easier to tackle several tasks at once. These advanced processors also deliver stunning graphics and unparalleled connectivity, providing an unparalleled immersive display and
